Beyond the Classroom—The Ongoing Challenge
When social workers are already in the field, there are conferences and other educational programs aside from the Undoing Racism workshops they can take advantage of to try to understand racism and their own responses better. Next spring, NASW-PA will be sponsoring such a conference entirely devoted to undoing racism. The keynote speaker will be Monica Walker, a trainer for the People's Institute and visiting professor at Guilford University in Greensboro, N.C.
